ARTIST FROM WEST PALM BEACH “DUBBA-AA” MAKES HISTORY WITH 2 GRAMMY’S AS EXECUTIVE PRODUCER

West Palm Beach, FL – Aaron Lockhart known as “Dubba-AA” (Double-A) makes history with Tennessee State University’s Aristocrat of Bands as Executive Producer of “The Urban Hymnal”. Winning best roots gospel album and a second Grammy win for their contributions to J. Ivy’s The Poet Who Sat by the Door, in the Best-Spoken Word Album category, these two Grammy’s make history as the only University and Marching Band to win such a prestigious award.

“Shout out to the students. Long nights, and countless hours to make this happen”. A former TSU Tiger, Dubba-AA vowed to give back to the University that poured into him as a student. For years the artist has donated music equipment, and a built-in studio to inspire younger students to reach towards success in the industry. “Giving back is not something new. Its in me. I’ve been doing this for years” said Dubba-AA. The musician, widely known for performing and producing multi-platinum albums alongside NBA Young Boy, Rick Ross, Kodak Black and countless others also give back to is home, Palm Beach County on July 24th or Dubba-AA Day officially recognized in West Palm Beach and Riviera Beach. “For me, its about relationships. I’m grateful for the honors that the City Mayors of Riviera Beach and West Palm Beach have given me and recognizing my contributions to the communities. If I can inspire one, that’s enough for me.”

Dubba-AA will also be attending the NAACP Image awards as a nominee, for Outstanding Gospel/Christian Album as an Executive Producer and Outstanding Gospel/Christian song as an Artist and Executive Producer.

About Dubba-AA

South Florida native, Dubba-AA (Double-A) is most widely accredited as the super-producer behind the Recording Artists, Kodak Black and Young Boy Never Broke Again. While he is known famously in the rap game as an artist and producer, one can say his hard work is paying off as he is emerging onto the Hip-Hop scene and fast. Dubba-AA is a 2X Grammy Award Winner and NAACP Image Awards Nominee.
